What is Sustainability?

Webster's New International Dictionary

"Sustain - to cause to continue (as in existence or a certain state, or in force or intensity); to keep up, especially without interruption diminution, flagging, etc.; to prolong."

Webster's New International Dictionary.
(Springfield, Mass.: Merriam-Webster Inc., 1986)

What is Sustainability?

Our Common Future

"Sustainable development is development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs."

Page 8, World Commission on Environment and Development. Our Common Future. (Oxford, Great Britain: Oxford University Press, 1987). (Frequently referred to as the Brundtland report after Gro Harlem Brundtland, Chairman of the Commission)

What is Sustainability?

World Business Council on Sustainable Development

"Sustainable development involves the simultaneous pursuit of economic prosperity, environmental quality and social equity. Companies aiming for sustainability need to perform not against a single, financial bottom line but against the triple bottom line."

What is Sustainability?

"Over time, human and social values change. Concepts that once seemed extraordinary (e.g. emancipating slaves, enfranchising women) are now taken for granted. New concepts (e.g. responsible consumerism, environmental justice, intra- and inter-generational equity) are now coming up the curve."

"Sustainable development...[is] the process of building equitable, productive and participatory structures to increase the economic empowerment of communities and their surrounding regions."

Updated June 2004
Sustainable development is about ensuring a better quality of life for everyone, now and for generations to come.
The 15 Headline indicators of sustainable development - a quality of life barometer - provide an overview of progress in meeting the objectives of the UK Sustainable Development Strategy - A better quality of life (May 1999).

Where a trend is unacceptable, the government will adjust its policies, and look to others to join in taking action. A full assessment of progress can be found in the fourth Government Annual Report on Sustainable Development 2003. Achieving a better quality of life. Data and further details on the Headline and a wider core set of indicators are available on the website below.

Strategy (1999)

- Integrate 10 Principles
- putting people at the centre;
- taking a long term perspective;
- taking account of costs and benefits;
- creating an open and supportive economic system;
- combating poverty and social exclusion;
- respecting environmental limits;
- the precautionary principle;
- using scientific knowledge;
- transparency, information, participation and access to justice;
- making the polluter pay.

Strategy (1999)

- Headline Indicators (15)
Progress towards sustainable development will be measured by a system of indicators. Headline indicators identify the key issues relating to quality of life. The Government will publish the headline indicators every year and report on action taken and proposed.
- For Industry, Government, NGO, Individuals
Government cannot achieve sustainable development on its own. The Strategy identifies action by business, local authorities, voluntary groups and all of us as individuals.

Strategy (2005)

HM Government
Executive Summary

Securing the future delivering UK sustainable development strategy

Executive Summary

Our Strategy for sustainable development aims to enable all people throughout the world to fulfil their basic needs and enjoy a better quality of life without compromising the ability of future generations.

Chapter 1:

A new strategy

The Government has a new purpose and principles for sustainable development and new strategy principles agreed across the UK, including the Overseas Administrations. The strategy contains:

- a new integrated plan building on the 1999 strategy - with strategic international and social dimensions
- the principles - with a more explicit focus on environmental limits
- four agreed priorities - sustainable consumption and production, climate change, natural resource protection and sustainable communities, and
- a new indicator set which is more customer focused, with commitments to look at new indicators such as air walking.

Chapter 2:

Helping people make better choices

As all governments, business, trade sector, voluntary and community organisations, communities and families - need to make difficult choices if we are to achieve the vision of sustainable development.

The Government proposes a new approach to influencing behaviour based on recent research on what determines current patterns. The Government will focus on measures to enable and encourage behaviour change, measures to engage people, and ways in which the Government can lead by example. Where there are too difficult to change entrenched habits, we will also look for ways to catalyse change.

Key commitments include:

- a new programme of community engagement - Community Action 2020 - together we can - to act as a catalyst for communities and helping people to get involved by providing skills training, improved access to funding and facilities
- a deliberative forum to look at what it would take to help people live more sustainable choices
- piloting open and innovative ways to allow consumers to influence decisions about the kind of projects which would deliver the goals of the strategy
- new commitments to support education and training in sustainable development, and
- evaluation of key environmental taxes to help build a more comprehensive picture of the effectiveness of such taxes and inform future reviews, including that of the Climate Change Programme.
